The Daily Courant.

Monday, February 15. 1714.

From the Paris Gazette, dated Feb. 17.

Naples, January 16.

LAST Week the Tribunals held their Assembly, to nominate the new Magistrates called Elefi; and the Tribunal of Nido chose Don Giuseppe Spinelli Count de Bocalino, as that of Porta Nuova did Don Francesco de Liguoro. The first waited on the Viceroy and the principal Ministers to excuse himself from accepting that Employment, because of the Difficulties of exercising it to the Satisfaction of the Publick, and to that of the Court of Vienna: But his Excuses were not accepted, and he was obliged to hold. The Spanish Troops which are returned from the Garrisons on the Coast of Tuscany, marched from hence some Days ago to go by Land to Manfredonia, whence they are to be transported to Fiume, where they are to be landed, thence to march to Hungary. We have had no considerable News this Week from Calabria, unless that a great Number of Barks came in continually from Messina to Reggio, with Goods of Sicily. But besides that notwithstanding the Opening of Commerce, they are not easily allowed to take on board Provisions in Calabria; the Collateral Council have issued express Prohibitions to export Provisions, on as rigorous Penalties as during the War.

Paris, Feb. 16. Upon the Arrival here of M. de Contade, a Major of the French Guards, a Person in whom the Court and the Marshal de Villars put great Confidence, it was presently rumoured that the Conferences at Rastad were entirely broken off; but we are since informed, that the Marshal has left Rastad for a few Days only, and that he is gone to Strasbourg, there to wait the Return of M. de Contade with the King's last Instructions, either for an absolute Rupture, or for renewing the Conferences and agreeing upon a Place of Congress. We hear the Duke of Orleans is displeased with M. de Contade, for giving him too dry and general an Answer, upon his Highness's asking him what was the Issue of the Negotiations at Rastad. 'Tis also said the Marquis de Torcy looks with a jealous Eye on M. de Voisin, who in Concert with Madam de Maintenon had the chief Management and Direction of the Orders for the Conferences at Rastad. The Cardinal de Noailles is banished from Court, notwithstanding Versailles is in his own Diocese, the Remonstrances made by the Chancellor to the King in his behalf proving useless. The Queen Dowager at St. Germain is fallen so ill within these few Days, that her Recovery is despaired of. The News from Spain is kept very secret; yet there are Merchants who have Advices that the Catalonians in the Plain of Vich had destroyed some Regiments of Spaniards, before the Duke de Popoli could send Detachments to stop the Progress of their Arms.

The Devices and Mottos of the Medals struck as usual at the Beginning of the Year, are for 1714 as follows.

For the Royal Treasury. A River, which after several Falls among Rocks, runs smooth in a level fall Channel. The Motto is Pacata plenus alveis.

For the casual Revenues. The Constellation of the Ship Argo. With the Words Nou jam fatalia terrent.

For the ordinary Funds for the War. Hercules's Club, with the Words Dignum Herculis labor.

For the extraordinary Funds. Minerva holding in one Hand her Spear with two mural Crowns on it, and in the other an Olive-Branch. The Motto is, Utriusq; triumphat.

For the Admiralty. Neptune calming the Waves of a troubled Sea. With the Words Praestat componere fluctus.

For the Gallies. Sirens and Nereids reposing on the Beach of a calm Sea. With the Words, Dat Sedes habitare quietas.

For the King's Buildings. The Sun passing through the Signs of the Zodiac. With the Words, Illustrat superum domos.

For the Chamber of Accounts. A Dove. The Motto is, Ambrosiam divitiis haec sola ministrat.

For the Office of Ordnance. Dismounted Cannon lying cross each other. With the Words, Pristinus est illis vigor.

Whereas a SCHEME was lately proposed to the Corporation of the Amicable Society, not only to lessen but to take off their Yearly Payments of 6 l. 4 s. in 7 Years. The same proving contrary to their Charter, could not be made use of, although great Advantages would have been had thereby, and therefore several Members of that Society have encouraged the Proprietor to form a new Society of the same Number, according to the said Scheme, which divides 10000 l. yearly, or 100 l. to every Claimant on the Death of a Nominer. A Subscriber is to pay 5 s. Entrance, and 4 s. per Ann. for 9 Years, and a Yearly Rebate of 4 s. on every Policy, to be deducted when a Claim is received. This Society is to commence the 10th of June next, and a Book for Subscriptions will be opened the 10th of March at Owen's Coffee-house at Simond's Inn in Chancery-lane.
